

My Dream Job- Career Counselling

As part of Career Counselling, students are asked to write on the topic 'My Dream Job'. Students are requested to identify skill sets required for achieving their dream job, skills which they have, skills which they lack and steps to be taken to improve their skills. The faculty members understand and guide the students on career choices; help students to identify their strengths and weaknesses, interests and aptitudes and suggest ways for improvement. A sample copy of 'My Dream Job' has been attached.

MY DREAM JOB

1) Industry/Sector

The industry or sector that my dream job is in is the fashion industry.

This particular industry has many aspects like modelling, fashion designing, clothes designing, jewellery designing, shoe designing, etc.

But, out of all these aspects my dream job is in the clothes designing.

My dream job is to start my own clothing line and expand it to all parts of the world.

To explain it further I would say that I want to be a 'brand' in myself.

2) Skills required.

The skills that I require for my dream job are firstly knowledge about clothes, different types of cloth.

I also require the skills of understanding the latest trends in fashion and understanding what the consumer wants.

The styles that a particular type of customer prefers are also to be studied through various skills.

Most importantly I need management skills in order to start and run my own business.

I need the skills required to get work done from people and also leadership skills.

Another important skill required is stitching and understanding of various materials.

I would also require the skills of judging or reading each customer's mind in order to efficiently solve their problem and make sure they get satisfaction out of the product they buy. I also need communication skills.

3) which skills you possess.

The skills that I possess right now are very few. These skills are:-

I have a little knowledge of clothes and the different types of cloth.

I have the skill of understanding the latest fashion trends.

I possess the skill of getting work done from people. I also have leadership skills and communication skills.

4) Why this dream job?

Since my childhood I have always shown interest in clothes. I have always felt that connection and attachment towards them.

Clothes have always brought me joy and maximum happiness.

Designing clothes is one thing I love doing and in which my passion is.

I want to have a career in clothes because I want to be happy with my job and that I feel like going to work everyday and work harder to be more & more successful.

5) Skills I lack.

Out of all the skills that are required for my dream job there are quite a few skills that I lack.

I lack the in depth knowledge of different types of cloth and various materials available.

I lack the skills of understanding what a consumer wants.

I also lack the skills of studying or judging the various customer preferences and styles preferred.

I also lack the skill of reading a customers mind and their taste.

The main skills I lack are the management skills and the stitching skills.

6) How I propose to learn/acquire these missing skills?

The management skills that I lack, I propose to acquire them through my MBA. MBA I will help me develop my overall personality and give me the required management skills.

The other skills like stitching, in depth knowledge of cloth, understanding human/customers wants and preferences or reading customers mind would be acquired when I start working under a professional in that particular field.

From their experience and the day to day dealings with customers I would be able to acquire and learn all the skills that I lack.

With determination and lots of practice also I propose to acquire the skills I lack.
